FEDERAL GOVERNMENT OWNS 41% OF STANDING SAW-TIMBER IN U. S.

Major problems facing the American forest industries today include "constantly increasing federal subsidies for various forestry activities"....federal construction of dams and reservoirs...."the increasing appetite of the federal government for land"....and federal ownership of commercial timber acreage.

A. Z. Nelson, forest economist of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, identified these problems in a paper presented to the 43rd annual meeting of the Texas Forestry Association.

In connection with government land acquisitions, Nelson declared: "Not only are private owners of timberland losing acreage to reservoir projects, but they also are frequently subjected to the loss of land for airfields, military reservations, right-of-way for highways, power lines and pipelines, wildlife reservations, national parks and other recreational areas, and so on."

"All in all, the government told us that last year alone, the United States acquired 754,000 acres costing $90 million and involving more than 15,000 separate tracts and parcels. How much of this is actually timberland is unknown."

Regarding federal timber holdings, Nelson pointed out that 41 per cent of all standing saw-timber in the U. S. is owned outright by federal agencies.

"Scarcely a sawmill or a wood-using plant exists in the West that does not depend upon government timber to some extent, and there are many in the South that are dependent," he asserted.

"Large volumes of government timber that should be offered for sale are still unavailable and so contribute nothing to the stabilization of industries or the permanency of communities."

"Furthermore, the government is unwilling to enter in long-term cooperative sustained - yield unit agreements or generally sell substantial volumes of timber on a long term basis."

Nelson concluded with this warning: "The monopoly ownership of resources and of productive facilities by the government can lead to the absolute control of those who are dependent upon them. Government administrators have a public responsibility to see that this does not happen."

"I deplore the efforts of those who seek to drive a wedge between businesses of different sizes. It is disturbing to find some who falsely accuse defenders of our American business system of being against Small Business." - Sinclair Weeks, Secretary of Commerce.

They will be distributed at all of Maine's drug stores by salesmen for wholesale drug firms.

In the drug stores, the blanks will be kept on display this month. People who have arthritis, rheumatism, or arthritic ailments will be asked to fill them out and mail them.

Mr. Morris said the Pharmaceutical Association voted its support in the knowledge that the registration can help to focus attention, promote help for those who suffer from arthritis.

Anahem, Cal., Bulletin - "proposals to make unions subject to anti-trust laws are current in Congress. In recent days they have gathered considerable momentum as a reaction to the new drive by Teamsters boss James Hoffa to weld all transportation labor into a giant new union."

TEN COMMANDMENTS OF HUNTING SAFETY

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the first rule of gun safety.
2. Guns carried into camp or home, or when otherwise not in use, must always be unloaded, and taken down or have actions open; guns always should be carried in cases to the shooting area.
3. Always be sure barrel and action are clear of obstructions, and that you have only ammunition of the proper size for the gun you are carrying. Remove oil and grease from chamber before firing.
4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle even if you stumble; keep the safety on until you are ready to shoot.
5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger; know the identifying features of the game you intend to hunt.
6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot; avoid all horseplay while handling a gun.
7. Unloaded guns should be unloaded; guns and ammunition should be stored separately beyond reach of children and careless adults.
8. Never climb a tree or fence or jump a ditch with a loaded gun; never pull a gun toward you by the muzzle.
9. Never shoot a bullet at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water; when at target practice, be sure your backdrop is adequate.
10. Avoid alcoholic drinks before or during shooting.

Do it now. It is not safe to leave a generous feeling to the cooling influence of a cold wind.

SCHOOL NEWS

Grade 2

We had our class meeting on Thursday instead of Friday. New officers were elected for the selling of King Cole Products at recess. We also received our tickets for a turkey that will be raffled off this November at a P. T. A. meeting.

We just had a four day week end, and are back in school again working hard. Both eighth grades are studying "The Great Gatsby" a story by Nathaniel Hawthorne. In literature it is a story about the Old Man of the Mountain in New Hampshire. It is a very interesting story. Reporters, Elizabeth Waldron and Patty McMillan.

Grade 6—Miss Varner. Parents—Please come to visit our school. This is American Education Week. We hope to have many people come to our room. Margaret Foy has left our room as she has gone to live in Bryant Pond.

We are working on a Science notebook that will be passed in next week. It is good to have some people's back who have been out with the mumps and the flu.

Those having a perfect attendance record for the first nine weeks of school are: Wayne Andrews, Reginald Brown, Alan Chapman, Linda Paine, Timothy Ramage, Sandra Sessions, and Larry Smith. Reporter, Josephine Foster.

Grade 8—Miss Varner. Parents—Please come to visit our school. This is American Education Week. We hope to have many people come to our room. Margaret Foy has left our room as she has gone to live in Bryant Pond.

and officers are the ones to benefit. In order to qualify under the provisions of the social security act, a wife or husband must be insured at time of application when she claimed wife's benefits or at the time she died if claiming widow's benefits. Social security could come to "bring with" the husband under some conditions when he was not a member of the social security but was if the wife had been insured because of this dependent and to support a wife or child to support a child. The wife or child must be dependent on the husband or wife at the time of application. The wife or child must be dependent on the husband or wife at the time of application. The wife or child must be dependent on the husband or wife at the time of application.

These are otherwise entitled for any month after August 1957, wives and widows whose earlier claims were denied because their weren't "bring with" their husbands may obtain benefits by making a fresh application. The same would be true if the wife or widow never made an earlier application because she was aware that requirement stood in the way of qualifying. The Lewiston office has had a scattering of applications from women because of this change, but feels that more are missing out on benefits because they do not yet know about it. Incidentally, it is not necessary that the husband if living, agree that his wife shall qualify.

Claims under any of these changes are made with the social security district office in the usual way. The next visit of a representative of the Lewiston office to Bethel will be next Wednesday at the Post Office from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m.

NATIONAL BOOK WEEK NOV. 17-23

New Books—Adult

"Baruch, My Own Story," by Bernard Baruch. One of the most remarkable men of our time, this man was an office boy at nineteen, a Wall Street partner at twenty-five, and a millionaire before he was thirty-five. He starts with a vivid account of his family background and boyhood in South Carolina and shows us his ventures in New York. "My Own Story" is infused with the remarkable personality of a truly distinguished American.

"When the Bough Breaks," by Orla Carney, with remarkable authenticity this portrays two generations of well-to-do suburbanites in Crystal Rock. Bud Floyd, a newcomer to this world, joins the ranks of junior executives. Becoming more and more immersed in his work, he finds his personal world on the verge of disaster when his old college roommate who used to be in love with his wife, Deborah, returns for a visit.

Young People's Books

"Rockets Through Space," by Lester Del Rey. Mr. Del Rey says: "Very soon—perhaps before this book appears—the first man-made satellites will be launched by rockets into outer space and will begin to circle the earth." "Rockets Through Space" is not a science-fiction book. It is a science fact. Here you will examine the inside of a future rocketship, learn the principles of jet propulsion, how men will live where there is no gravity, what dangers will be faced by the first daring pioneers in space.

"Comanche of the Seventh," by Margaret Leighton. Here is a book for boys and girls that combines horse love, life in the cavalry, and the opening of the Great Plains in a way that will prove irresistible.

"The Great Wheel," by Robert Lawson. Peering into the cup, Aunt Honora read the tea leaves for the Irish lad, Conn. "Mind well what I'm telling you, now. Your fortune lives to the west. Keep your face to the sunset and follow the evening stars, and one day you'll ride the greatest wheel in all the world." Six years later Conn did sail to America, and almost a decade later Aunt Honora's prophecy was finally fulfilled.

BROWN COMPANY PLANNING EMERGENCY LANDING STRIPS

The Brown Company of Berlin, N. H., has announced that land at Poonook, N. H., and Grafton, Maine, will be made available for emergency airplane landing strips. The Poonook site, halfway between Berlin and Errol, will be 1,800 feet long. In Grafton, the strip, parallel to Route 24, will be 1,000 feet.

SO THEY SAY....

"Capital is labor grown a little older.... Maybe we don't think of ourselves as capitalists during our years of active work. But later on we'll have to be capitalists, profiting from past work or savings, or depend on 'social security.'"—Markson Topics, publication of Markson Machine Company, Keene, N. H.

"Most people save for a rainy day. But few can wait for one."—The Triangle, publication of The Nashua Corporation, Nashua, N. H.

"America's economy has placed our people on the highest plateau in history. It has, in less than two centuries, paraded before our very eyes greater changes in living standards than occurred in all the previous recorded history of Western civilization."—Wendell B. Barnes, Chief, Small Business Administration.
